

Hi, I'm Jon Torrey, the author of Startwithnfts.com.

My NFT journey began in July and I strive to provide my readers with valuable content as this space matures.

Too many people pump their own "bags" (assets they own) to turn a quick profit but I am taking a different approach as I'd like my readers to be here for the long-haul.

I will always disclose what NFT projects I have ownership in. More likely than not, projects I write about are ones that I like and either own an asset in or hope to own one in.

This does not mean you should buy the projects I like and write about. I am not paid to do any specific project promotions and don't plan to do this given how volatile the market has been.

In order to keep the lights on and provide valuable content to my readers, I am running Google Ads and have affiliate links for products I like and trust.

I am an affiliate for the Ledger Hardware Wallet and will receive compensation if you purchase their product after clicking my link.

The plan is to add more affiliates with products I use and enjoy.

I will always disclose any sponsored posts, affiliate links and projects I own so that you feel informed when reading my content.